Credit Union CDFI Helps Client Start Over

College student Darrell Molett struggled to find permanent housing after Hurricane Katrina. When he moved to San Francisco for work, housing was his immediate concern. Self-Help Federal Credit Union, an Oakland-based CDFI dedicated to serving low-income earners, provided two services for Darrell. He took out a Fresh Start Loan and a Secured Credit Card to build credit.

“Self-Help took a chance on me. They listened to me and understood what I was going through. The credit union not only helped me financially get to where I needed to be, it helped me as a person.”
